

The Roxbury Institute Hosted a Special Night of Education with Drs. David Amron, Michael Price, and Todd Malan

Top Specialists Discussed a New FDA-Approved Solution to Treating Chronic Joint Pain Without Surgery

Los Angeles, April 29, 2016 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- The Roxbury Institute in Beverly Hills, California hosted its inaugural night of education as part of their progressive Anti-Aging and Regenerative Medicine Program for patients. The institute's founder, Dr. David Amron, discussed breakthroughs in adipose tissue therapies for pain alongside leading orthopedic surgeon Dr. Michael Price, with a special appearance by world-renowned therapeutic stem cell pioneer Todd Malan on April 28.

Celebrity liposuction expert and lipedema treatment pioneer Dr. Amron has joined together with Dr. Price to provide a new FDA-approved cell therapy treatment for degenerative joint conditions. Current and prospective patients interested in a non-surgical solution to their joint pain enjoyed dinner and drinks while learning more about advancements in non-invasive adipose tissue therapies.

"Dr. Price is the ultimate expert in both surgical and non-surgical solutions to chronic joint pain, while I am someone who specializes in extracting fat," said Dr. Amron. "Working together, we are now able to achieve outstanding results by taking that same fat that has been extracted and strategically re-injecting it to heal joints."

Using this highly-advanced cell therapy, the doctors are successfully treating joint pain in the spine, shoulders, elbows, wrists and hands, hips and pelvis, knees, lower legs, ankle and foot, as well as arthritic joints, all without the need for invasive surgery.

As a first-of-its-kind aesthetics and anti-aging facility, The Roxbury Institute is home to specialists and sub-specialists in nearly every aspect of high definition body contouring, facial and body plastic surgery, dermatology, hormone replacement, stem cell therapy, IV nutrition, and more.

The Roxbury Institute is located at 450 North Roxbury Drive, Suite #400 in Beverly Hills, California. For more information or to schedule an appointment, please call 424.394-1610 or email us via our Contact Us Form.
